NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING IS BEST ASSET TO SALESMANSHIP, SAYS FRED P. MANN IN ADDRESS

Newspaper Advertising Value is Stressed by North Dakota Merchant Visiting Texas

Fred P. Mann, the Merchant Prince, of Devils Lake, North Dakota, and owner of the store doing the largest volume of business of any store in the United States, in towns under 5000, has just completed a tour, visiting fifty Texas Cities, analyzing to Texas Merchants methods to get more business.

"I find that a great many merchants in this territory, probably 75%, as startling as it may seem, are not using newspaper advertising. The 25% that are advertising in the newspapers are just using a card, maybe two column, five inches, announcing the fact that they have good merchandise for sale at the right price. Of course, there are merchants in the territory who are using newspaper advertising, and direct mailing advertising, and are consistently meeting competitive competition, increasing their volume, and their net, year after year, and building some of the prettiest stores it has ever been my pleasure to see. But if the stores, in this territory, would get actively behind an advertising program for their own store, and would advertise the merchandise, properly described and properly presented, in their home town newspapers, the results would startle them.

The people in this territory really prefer to trade with their home town merchants. That is evidenced by the co-operative community spirit shown in all the towns I have visited, but I do wish that, in addition to my being able to compliment the merchants on their very attractive stores, and their customers upon wanting to give them the preference, that I could truthfully congratulate the stores upon their very fine advertising department, or advertising programs.

Some of the stores I have visited had fronts, while not as large surely as attractive, as my store in Devils Lake. Some of the departments were just as attractive as the Mann Store, but none of them could touch our advertising department.

The newspaper editors of this territory evidently have not been able to convince the dealers, in every line of business, that newspaper advertising is the logical means of increasing sales and profits. WE WOULD NEVER THINK OF LETTING A DAILY OR MONTHLY NEWSPAPER, IN OUR CITY, GO TO PRESS WITHOUT AN ADVERTISEMENT telling our people what we have to sell, in most descriptive terms, and at the price at which it is offered for sale.

Our grocery department advertising has been criticized by those who do not know, contending that the public knows that we have two-pound cans of tomatoes for sale, and that we have Pet milk and sugar, and they contend consistently that I would do the same amount of business without advertising. They just do not know what they are talking about. We increase, not decrease our newspaper advertising every year. We increased our sales last year and year before in our grocery department alone $40,000.00. We would not think of making a purchase of any consequence without backing that purchase up with a real advertising campaign.

We sold four carloads of watermelons in the great Mann Store. I received a wire from my son, while on this trip, to buy another carload while down here, and that they would prepare the advertisement to sell the melons. We get melons that average thirty pounds; we pay the freight .014¢ per pound, and when we get them up there we write an advertisement that makes the people want to taste those good, juicy watermelons from Texas. We fill our windows with Texas watermelons at 95¢ each. Every customer that comes into our store is told about the watermelons, and if the following day we have some special item in our dress department, then every customer that comes into our grocery department is told about the special dress values we have on the other side.

We do not think that we could build on business without newspaper advertising. We do not believe that we could consistently increase our sales and profits if we did not use the newspapers. We have the same kind of competition that you have, the same chain stores, and we have a lot more that have not come South yet. We meet them and beat them, consistently, by using the same method that they use to get business-the printed word. In addition to our newspaper advertising, which absorbs the bulk of the advertising, we circulate 7000 customers at least once a week, not with a general circular but with a specific special that we are offering. Our customers know that we are in business, and when they receive literature from large town stores, the thought occurs to them, 'I wonder if the Mann Store could not supply me with that same merchandise.' The other fellows advertising is really building business for us. Merchants who fail to carry on big advertising campaigns must eventually fall by the wayside.

Mr. Mann, whose phenomenal success as a retailer has caught the attention of such widely circulated publications, as Success Magazine, The Country Gentleman, Saturday Evening Post, and the Philadelphia Ledger, together with scores of smaller publications throughout the country. The Mann Store, he said, attracts customers from a distance of 70 miles when special advertising campaigns are opened.

"When I have anything to sell, what do I do?" he said. "I advertise. When I want anyone to come to my store, I advertise."

Single page and double page advertisements are inserted in the small Devils Lake newspaper, which has a circulation of 2200 subscribers, at regular intervals. Mr. Mann believes in consistently advertising. He declares that advertising costs him nothing. The tremendous drawing power of the advertisement, he said, makes up for the expense of the advertisement.

A number of big advertisements run in the Devils Lake newspaper were shown by the merchant. The number of dollars each of them returned in the form of trade was enormous.

The Devils Lake man also employs to some extent price cards backing up his advertising. He scored pencils, calendars, and other articles as effective advertising mediums. Pointing to a calendar on the wall, he asked if the expense involved would ever be returned in the shape of increased trade. "I don't want to knock anybody's business," he said, "but that system of advertising does not pay."

Mr. Mann will be in San Antonio the week of July 29th, and will deliver a series of addresses to Texas Merchants. He will, by special appointment talk with merchants individually or in small groups, about any service advertising merchandise, purchase control, display, cards, or delivery problems, that the merchant might have, without cost, of course, to the merchants as they come to San Antonio, through the courtesy of the Service Wholesalers and Manufacturers.

TEXAS & TEXANS

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

By Will H. Mayes

Pulling For Texas

In announcing the beginning of the publication of this column in the Mission Enterprise, Editor Moulton Cobb makes a statement that should appeal to every editor in Texas. Among other things he says: "Though we are 300 miles from the center of population in this State, we are just as much Texans as are the people of McLennan or Dallas counties, and events of this State should be of vital interest to all."

For many years this columnist has been trying to impress Texas publishers that all Texas should pull together for the general good of the whole State. The immense size of the State tends to create division of interests and efforts, with each section pulling hard for its own locality and often knocking other parts of the State. This rivalry extends to the cities and smaller communities until most Texans come to regard the real Texas as confined to their immediate horizons. No community can ever progress as it should whose citizens do not look beyond the community boundary; no State can develop whose people are not kept acquainted with its progress.

The newspaper that fails to keep its readers advised as to what is going on in a constructive way throughout the State, thereby encouraging its own people to undertake greater things, is missing the most valuable means for stimulating local enterprise. Most lessons of value are taught by example and comparison rather than by editorial precept.

"Texas and Texans" is a weekly column of comparative study of Texas as progress, and if a few hundred Texas editors could but have the broad vision of Editor Cobb and the others who use it as a regular feature illustrating the worth-while undertakings going on over all Texas, as a Texas spirit would soon be indicated that would rebound to the good of all the State.

Pardon what may seem to be "boastfulness," but these statements are prompted by the desire of a lifetime to render a more valuable service to all Texas than can be done without the hearty co-operation of the press.

Political Rest Needed

Dabney White, veteran Tyler newspaper man, who loves his Texas better than he loves its politicians, says that he recently completed a 20,000 mile trip through Texas and that the people everywhere are tired of the strife and discord that is being stirred up and kept at fever heat by politicians and are asking: "Can't we find some mature, conservative and practical leader somewhere in Texas who will permit the right thinking people of Texas to conscript him or her to fill the governor's chair for at least a season?"

Donley Wants Junior College

Donley County has started a movement to secure a junior college under the law recently passed by the legislature and hopes to be the first to comply with the requirements. Before many years there will be many such schools in Texas and most college students will take their freshmen and sophomore courses near their homes, leaving the large State schools the work of advanced and graduate teaching.

Texas and Texans are wasting vast sums on education, and there is no greater problem confronting the state than the adjustment and unification of its educational system.

Arlington's Practical Method

The North Texas Agricultural College last fall established part-time co-operative commercial courses in which the student of 'limited means' receives business training with some business firms while taking college

G. A. MEETING

The G. A.'s met for a regular monthly program Wednesday, July 10, 1929. The program was rendered very nicely. Then refreshments were served, consisting of sandwiches, potato chips and iced tea, by the hostesses, Miss Eleanor Heyen and Gladys Fusselman.

We will miss our G. A. Counselor as she is going to teach in Dunlay. We are all hoping for her a successful term of school.

courses. Just why this experiment is confined, if it is, to students of 'limited means' is not made clear nor is it stated why it is being tried only in commercial courses. The name of the school indicates that its major efforts should be in agriculture, and certainly agriculture affords a fine field for co-ordinating instruction with practical work.

Education that fails to combine instruction with practical life, whether in the elementary grades or in the universities, is about nine-tenths waste. The great reason why this is not general is that so few educators know anything at all about the practical side of life. Most of them are visionary theorists as helpless as babies when detached from their books.

Youth Makes Record

Here is something better than a tennis championship, A. M. Carter, Jr., of Plainview, a 21-year-old youth, who graduated last year from the University of Texas, is harvesting a 195,000 bushel wheat crop from 6,500 acres near Amarillo. When he graduated, his father, a well-to-do merchant of Plainview, offered to set him up in business. He leased the land for a period of eight years and broke the sod last summer in preparation for the first crop. The average yield, now being harvested with 15 combines, is estimated at 30 bushels an acre. Right behind the harvester 20 plows are turning under the stubble in preparation for another crop. Of course, there are not many Texas boys whose fathers can finance them on such a large scale, but the Texas youth who has it in him to succeed can usually find a way to get started toward success.

Heavy Vegetable Shipments

More than 25,000 car loads of vegetable shipments is the record of the Lower Rio Grande Valley for the season just closed. Weslaco proudly leads the other towns in shipments with 2,872 cars, with Mercedes following with 2,201 and Donna third with 1,827 cars.

Despite these figures that are furnished by the railroads, there are multiplied thousands of Texas people who are at the reports of the Magic Valley vegetable and citrus crops are purely mythical and intended only for glib outsiders. Know YOUR Texas.

Citrus Organizations

The citrus industry of Texas finds it needs organization if it would succeed. The growers of the Rio Grande Valley are now pretty well organized in a general association, but are finding local organization an additional help. Recently, the McAllen Citrus Growers Association was organized with C. J. Volz of Mission, president; Grade Alloway of Edinburg, vice-president; A. E. Donelson of the same organization, secretary; and a board of directors representative of the section. The time has come when every product grown in Texas should be handled through strong co-operative organizations.

Value of Sulphur Deposits

In getting at the valuation of the Boiling Dome, Wharton county, sulphur deposits for taxation purposes, a witness who represents a large sulphur company stated that he was so sure of a valuation of $130,000,000 when he appraised the property, January 1st, that he would have recommended the purchase of the deposits by his company at that price. The commissioners court which had previously appraised the deposit at $120,000,000, set the valuation at $27,000,000 and taxed the company on $9,000,000 only, which was an increase from the $4,000,000 for which it has been rendered. In other words the sulphur company appears to be going to have to pay taxes on about $1.00 of every $14.00 of its property valuation. This strongly emphasizes the need for some sort of equitable tax equalization.

MISS BRUCKS ENTERTAINS

Miss Bess Brucks entertained the Ladies Bridge Club at her home Thursday evening.

After a few hours of exciting playing the following prizes were awarded. Mrs. Frank Schweers high among the club members received a box of scented soap in novelty shapes. Mrs. Dr. O. B. Taylor won low among the members and received a powder puff. Among the guests Miss Corine Reynolds won high score, a bride set in green and Mrs. Albert Hutzler won low, a pair of shoe trees.

Refreshments of ice cream and Angel food and checkerboard cake were served to the following members and guests: Mesdames R. W. Speece, O. H. Miller, Ed. Conovey, Frank Schweers, Earl Boon, Horace Bradley, O. B. Taylor, Albert Hutzler, N. C. Johnson, Ed. Cameron, L. J. Brucks.

Misses Jimmie de Montel, Corrine Reynolds, Duzt Davis, Jo and Lillian Brucks and the hostess, Miss Bess Brucks.

That was business and I got the best of you. To h—i with all that! That isn't what you're sore about. It's because I've cut you out with the girl. Why don't you own up to it?" Baxter laughed mockingly.

"You don't suppose, you poor boob, that she would ever look twice at a man like you as a lover. You've got diluted maple sirup in your veins. She's got blood, red, hot! I kissed her less than half an hour ago. I—"

Fury overmastered Caleb. Baxter had touched the sensitive core of the whole matter—Betty Clinton! He leaped for his man and felt the well-aimed, smashing impact of Baxter's fists to neck and jaw as he himself drove hard to the body. But the straight punch that nearly found the fatal "point" jolted him badly and left him dizzy. He grappled to a clinch as the moon sailed out, wading through a shallow sea of spindrift clouds.

The bridge rocked and swayed to their struggle, bucking under them as the flood lifted it, only to let it sag again, and swirled about their feet, tugging viciously at the structure, tearing at the cables, thrusting at the cliffs. Their feet slipped on the wet planks, they fell against the hand-ropes and the slanting suspension stays, clutching frantically with one hand, striking with the other, giving blows that left each sick with pain, desperate, ignoring the peril, clinging and sliding while they fought, silent save for their heavy breathing and the grunts with which a blow was delivered or received.

Baxter fought foul as his strength sapped from him. Caleb was harder, deeper-lunged, better muscled for this rough and tumble game. He hammered Baxter over the kidneys and Baxter gasped with the pain, his face contorting while he hung like a dead weight to his opponent, faint with anguish. When it passed he flung up his knee and caught Caleb in the groin, temporarily evening things. He broke free and lashed out, right and left, falling at Caleb's head and jaw as the latter crouched against an angle of the hand rope and a stay, covering up. Then, with an energy summoned from his reserves, Caleb rushed, landing hard above the heart. Baxter staggered, groped forward and flung an arm about Caleb's neck, dragging with all his weight while Baxter strove for balance. His fingers found Caleb's throat, and worked desperately in shutting off breath, torturing as they pressed upon the jugular.

As they clung, athwart the planks now, Baxter's weight almost unbearable in the crook of Caleb's arm, his body stretched out down stream with the force of the water, the eastern buttress shuddered, tottered, slid, plunging into the gut. It toppled sideways, shaking the bridge as a terrier shakes a rat, dragging it until the cables sang above the noise of the torrent and then, anchored by sunken ledge and crevice, jammed hard, it held firm, the cables still secure. The sudden jar, the lowered pitch, was too much for Baxter. The blow over the heart had finished his endurance. His fingers lost their grip on Caleb's throat, the furious water claimed him. His despairing clutch on Caleb's smooth slicker failed. He gave a cry, his face ghastly in the white light of the moon and slid into the current like a log.

Caleb snatched him by the collar of his coat and shifted his armhold for a grip on a saving stanchion as they both straightened out in the imperious sweep of the maddened creek. He thought his arm would be torn from its socket with the strain and he managed to wrap his legs about the planks, shouting at Baxter, yelling his loudest. Unless Baxter helped to save himself, or Caleb let loose of him, another moment would see them both whirled down the gut, over and over, their lungs filled with water, battered drowned!

"Get hold of yourself," Caleb yelled. "Baxter! Get a grip on something, hang on to me. Haul yourself up, quick!"

The insistent words and the will behind them worked in Baxter's numb brain and roused him to a last flurrying fight for life. With a frantic effort he clawed at Caleb, twining his fingers in the slicker and slowly dragged himself up from the suction of the flood. Caleb got both hands to the stanchion, praying that it might hold. Baxter found the opposite one, then the hand-ropes, and so crawled to safety, releasing Caleb from his dead weight. He began to hitch himself up the incline while Caleb lay for the moment slack, utterly exhausted, his breath coming in great gasps, the fibers of his muscles seeming to be torn apart, his sinews racked. He got to his knees at last and then to his feet. The bridge might collapse at any second, there was no time to lose. Baxter collapsed again from weakness, face down in the planks where they still showed above the ever-rising, furious water. Caleb got an arm about him. With the help of the hand-ropes he hauled Baxter along until they reached the solid cliff of the western side of the gut. The blood was pounding in his brain with his efforts and it seemed as if someone was calling to him. He stood, leaning against a tree—Baxter seated on a ledge, his face in his hands, elbows on knees—and faced the creek and the broken bridge, breathing in great gulps of cool air. The call came plainly now, no fiction of his dizzy brain.

Reined upon the verge where the cliff buttress had broken loose, was Betty Clinton on her pinto pony, the forelegs of the snorting horse braced against danger. The moon was free of scud and the girl's face was clearly visible. She had no hat and her chestnut hair was in disorder.

"How long had she been there?" Caleb wondered while he strove to catch what she was saying above the tumult of the creek. He heard his name. She recognized him, with his slicker torn, his face bloody. And she had hailed him in preference to Baxter! Baxter had come from the ranch. But she had called to the man she had snubbed—in her trouble, for there was trouble, he gathered, as she repeated her words in a high voice that came clearly now and then when wind and water favored.

"Mr. Warner! My father—is—ill! I have—sent—word—by Padilla—by the road. A doctor—Luis—may—not—get one. Will—you? The bridge?" "I'll get one," Caleb shouted back. She heard him and nodded to tell him so. He turned to Baxter.

"Hear what she said? I've got to get a doctor. Are you all right to leave?" Baxter lifted his face. It was swollen with hate. "D—n you, yes," he answered. "Leave me alone."

Caleb looked across the gut before he took to the trail. He saw Betty Clinton deftly wheeling her pony. It was dark as soon as he got well into the canyon where the growth was thick. But he forged ahead in the darkness, puzzling a little as to why she had not called Baxter. Had she ridden to overtake him, knowing he had gone that way. Had she seen the fight, seen Caleb rescue his opponent, perhaps thought Baxter too weak for her purpose—or did she take sides with Caleb, in some flash of intuition?

Whatever the real reason, his hopes spurred him down the uncertain path on his errand, charged with new energy by the appeal of Betty Clinton. He came out upon the plain panting but with his second wind gained, crunching through gravel, plowing through the alkali soil at a steady jog until at last he pounded over the Coyote creek bridge and gained the hotel, asking the astonished landlord where the nearest doctor lived, and so on again down the road for half a mile to find the physician in and commandeer his services.

"Clinton? Clinton of El Nido? Have you come from there? What's the trouble?"

"I can't tell you. Not an accident, I'm sure, or Miss Clinton would have said so. The bridge at the canyon head was down. We had to shout across. She's sent a man by the road but she was afraid he might not be able to get a doctor. She just said he was ill."

"Ah! I see. He'll have gone to Paloma. There's Conklin there. And

Only the Rutted Road Showed There Had Been a Storm.

he's got a lot of influenza. Road's pretty bad after the storm, but we'll get there. Going back with me?" Caleb wanted to go back. He might be of use. He had done what she asked, he was entitled to her thanks, at least.

"I'll go," he said. "Come on." The doctor had picked up his bag and led the way to his little garage.

The sky had cleared completely and the night was fair as they chugged out to the road and shot down toward the highway that would take them to Paloma and so, by a sideroad, to the valley. Caleb fancied that Baxter would come out of the canyon all right. Not that he greatly cared. But some of the enmity had gone out of him.

The air was cool, bright stars glittered all about the soaring moon. Only the rutted road showed that there had been a storm. At last they struck the well-drained highway and sped along the metalled road at top speed, past the scattering light of Paloma to labor valiantly up the hill that led to Hermanos valley and drop down to the ranch.

There was a car standing by the house.

"Looks as if they'd got Conklin," said the doctor as he honked his horn and braked to a standstill. "Don't look like his car, though."

It was Baxter's roadster. Why he should have left it there and started for the canyon in the storm, again perplexed Caleb. A sudden thought struck him with the possibility that he might have quarreled with Betty Clinton. That would account for her not asking his aid. He had lied when he said he kissed her. Baxter would do that. Or the kiss might have been forced, and he dismissed.

They went by San Antonio, Seguin, Gonzales, Shulenburg, Eagle Lake and Houston to Galveston, and spent several days at Galveston enjoying the sea breezes and bathing at the beach. They also visited the Lutheran Church and Pastor Albert, while they were there. They enjoyed every hour they were there and when they left Galveston they went by Hempstead, Brenham and Giddings to Austin and stopped there one night and next day they visited the State Capitol and other places, and went by San Marcos, New Braunfels, seeing the Landa Park, and passed many other Texas cities. They had a most enjoyable trip, no auto trouble and made the trip from here to Galveston in one day.

HAS A BIRTHDAY.

Last week's issue of this paper closed the 43rd volume of the paper and this week we enter its 44th year of existence with Volume 44, No. 1. The Anvil was established at Castroville in 1886 and moved to Hondo in October 1903, absorbing the Herald which had been established here in 1891. With the possible exception of the Louis Carle Mercantile business of D'Hanis, established by its present owner's father many years ago, this paper is probably the oldest business enterprise in the country at the present time. It was bought on Good Friday, 1900, while in its 13th volume, and has been run continuously since by its present owner and has missed but one issue in the more than twenty-nine years of that time.

That we have neither grown opulent or fat at the job is too obvious to be doubted; that we have run it to suit ourself should be equally so. That we have done as we please so long without being licked by any one or hailed into court by the law is evidence that we live among the best people in the world.

Too old now to change! Thank you.

A shower of rain which was not wanted by our cotton farmers fell here early Thursday morning. Farmers report that dry weather was checking the boll weevil somewhat, but with the recurrence of showers and the threat of other insect pests, especially boll worms, the cotton outlook is any thing but encouraging.

Rev. J. W. Long and family arrived here Wednesday from a vacation trip to the Ozark Mountains in northern Arkansas. They are visiting in the home of Mrs. Long's father, I. H. King. Rev. Long reports the fruit crop short in the Ozarks, and says the farmers are somewhat blue in that country.

USED CARS

We have sometimes found the impression prevailing that we will not accept anything but a used Ford car in trade for a new Model A. That is not a fact. Many cars—in both high and low price classes—are being constantly traded in for the new Ford.

If you're in the market for a used car, come to our showroom. Thousands of miles of unused transportation are represented there in cars awaiting second owners. And each one is priced at just what it is worth. There is no "price padding" or inflation to permit us to recoup excessive trade-in allowances. The price of the Model A is so low that excessive allowances for used cars are impossible.

You can take advantage of this situation. Act now! Come and see these bargains in unused mileage—

LIONS HAVE BUSY MEETING.

Hondo Lions Club met in regular luncheon Monday, July 22, at 12:15, with a good bunch of the Kink of the East present. Lion-Tamer "Little Willie" Saathoff was on the job taming the Lions with music and song. The Tail-twister "Jinks" was ready with his little derby for any one who dared to enter the den later than 12:15. Pres. Joe Dillon called a business meeting after luncheon and reports were received from several committees on projects being sponsored by Lions Club.

Road committee reported with a petition which was signed by all lions present and they will continue with petition until they have some one or two hundred signers. This petition is to have road going to Ina Field graded and put in passable condition at all times. The Lions Club feels this is very necessary and will be of much benefit to town and community.

Yard contest committee reports 12 entrants to contest, and requests every one who wishes to enter do so at once as judging will be July 31 and August 31. All that will be necessary to do to enter the contest is to notify J. G. Barry, chairman of the committee.

President Dillon gave a report of a meeting of Highway association, 90 which was held in Del Rio. This will be a great thing for our highway as they are planning some road advertising in the near future. All have something later on this.

After business meeting we were entertained by having Rev. C. P. Haas, Pastor of the Quilhi Lutheran Church, speak to us. He said he was first reluctant in accepting the invitation to speak before the Hondo Lions, but after coming to the Lion's den he felt that he would be able to give as did Daniel when he was taken into the lion's den. Rev. Haas gave us a wonderful talk on Lionism though he is not a Lion. One of the points he brought before the club which is well worth our consideration, was for each Lion to make a personal survey of town and community and note what he thinks best the club could do, and after all have decided on some project and do not finish one job before considering another. Then following this co-operation of all Lions on one project until it is finished. Rev. Haas gave the Lions Club a compliment when he said that from his observation the Lions Club of Hondo is doing to accomplish anything which is for the good of the community in co-operation, which we believe will help the club and spur them on to greater things.

MACHINERY OVERHAULED.
The plant at Mrs. J. W. Hollaway's has been almost completely overhauled this season and a lot of new machinery has been installed. Four new gin stands of the latest improved make have been installed. They are equipped with a cleaner, separator, belt distributor and new conveying machinery, all of the latest modern make.

All machinery is driven by electric motor, thus doing away with all steam and fire hazards, and on the whole making the equipment the very best and best that can be provided. Both of Hondo's gins have been in order for a busy season and are ready for it to open up. Cotton expected to begin coming in at any time now, and the facilities for ginning the crop are ample.

STAGE AND SCREEN NEWS.

"CUCKOO WEEK" is the general outline of the stage show at the Greater Majestic theatre in San Antonio, for the week commencing Saturday, July 27th. The reason is Roger B. Murrell's exotic and hilarious comedy revue "Cuckoo" which headlines the stage show. There is guaranteed a laugh every 20 seconds while this vehicle occupies the stage. Nothing serious is tolerated! It's all in fun, and what fun it is. Alexandria and Olsen, known throughout the vaudeville world as the Dynamos of Laughter" are the featured comics on this bill as well as the "Cuckoo" unit proper. Jack and Ruth Hayes in "Urban and Suburban" are another feature.

"THE VALIANT", a Wm. Fox Movietone all-talking feature is the screen vehicle offered in conjunction with "Cuckoo Week." It is an intensely dramatic pituitization of the famous stage play, made so by the noted actor Bert Lytell. In this screen version, Paul Muni, one of the younger and more noted stage stars makes his first appearance on the talking screen.

DON GALVAN, noted master of ceremonies and band conductor is a feature of the weekly shows at the Greater Majestic theatre in San Antonio. Don has won world wide fame for his expert playing of the banjo, an instrument which he usually obliges with a number each week.

EVA WHITE, Prima donna of the St. Louis Opera company has been signed to appear over the Interstate Amusement Co. Circuit. She will make her first vaudeville appearance in Ft. Worth on the 17th of August, and will be in San Antonio at the Greater Majestic on September First, for one week. She was selected as one of the most promising of the younger sopranos, and has created a sensation in the Forest Park Opera, St. Louis, this summer.

TOM MIX, who is now touring the north with one of the big circus outfits, is to make a few selected vaudeville appearances this fall. His tour includes a personal appearance at the Greater Majestic theatre in San Antonio. "Tony" will be with him.

W. L. S. RADIO STATION, in Chicago, has sent it's favorites of the air to tour the country. They are coming to the Greater Majestic, with their WLS show boat "Palace of Wonders" in a few weeks. Harry Saddler, the famed announcer of the station, acts as Master of Ceremonies of the show.

ANTI-BLUES CLUB.

Mrs. Earl Lacy was hostess to the A. B. C. Thursday evening, when she entertained the members and a few friends with a pretty bridge party at the home of her mother, Mrs. Wilson. Five tables of players were present, and at the conclusion of several interesting games, Miss Thelma Lynch received the club prize, Mrs. Felix Richter won guests' prize and Miss Janice Holloway low.

The following were present: Mesdames Elmer Leinweber, Frank Schweers, Meliff Lippold, Albert Hutzler, Ed Ney, Felix Richter, Oscar Filleman, Alfred Rath, Misses Joe Brucks, Laura Nester, Ina King, Helen Lacy, Octavia Davis, Lillian Brucks, Hermina Nester, Anne Davis, Thelma Lynch, Clara Filleman, Mary Crouch, Janice Holloway and the hostess.

THE SEASON'S FIRST BALE.

Hondo's first bale for the 1929 crop was brought in by Raymond Bailey from his farm south of town Thursday, July 25. It was ginned by the Hondo Gin & Milling Company and weighed 560 pounds.

P. R. Richter bought it, paying the premium price of 18½ cents. Cotton seems a little late about opening, due to the late rains and the rank growth, but the picking season will soon be on in full swing.

TO DISTRICT SCHOOL TRUSTEES, MEDINA COUNTY, TEXAS.

Ladies and Gentlemen: A meeting of the Medina County District School Trustees, together with the County Board of Trustees, will be held at the High School Auditorium, Hondo, Texas, August 10, 1929, at 10 o'clock A. M.

Mr. Frank Van Winkle, a representative from the State Department of Education, Austin, Texas, will discuss recent school legislation of Texas. He has a message for the trustees of the schools and those interested in the welfare of the children.

Superintendent Marrs urges us to give this meeting extensive publicity, and extend a cordial invitation to all interested in the schools of the county, and insists especially on the attendance of all the Trustees of the county.

Following program will be used as an outline for the discussions. Every trustee should avail himself of the opportunity to be at this meeting and take part in all discussions:

1. School Classifications. Its advantages. Led by Co. Supt. Saathoff.
2. Why some of the Schools are not Standardized. Mr. C. C. Godden.
3. Recent School Legislation. Professor Frank Van Winkle, State Department of Education.

Noon

4. The School, and its relation to the Community. Mr. W. L. DuBose.
5. Address, Professor Frank Van Winkle, Austin.

6. School Boards and their problems. Round Table Discussions, led by Mr. H. F. Wurzbach.
7. Vocational Schools. What they Accomplish. Professor Roensch, Yancey, Texas.

The leadership of a board of trustees means much to a school district. Their interest in the welfare of the children means better schools, better teachers, more revenue, and a cementing of the factors that elevate society. Their presence will be an inspiration to others, and they will return to their respective schools determined to put into operation better educational facilities for the children of their respective districts.

Respectfully yours,
W. N. Staahoff, Secretary.
H. F. Wurzbach, Chairman P. T.

ENJOY SWIMMING PARTY.

The following constituted a swimming party that spent an enjoyable evening at the Castroville bridge Thursday evening:

Mr. and Mrs. Armin Bendele and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Haass, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Haass, Jr., and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bendele and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bendele and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weynand and family, Mrs. Jake Baby and daughters, Misses Ophelia, Minnie and Pauline, Misses Pauline and Marcella Krennmuller, Ethel and Thelma Bendele, Alice Leinweber, Adeline Schmidt, Messrs. Leo Laake, Henry Batot, Joe and Rudolph Krennmuller, Armin, Paul, Oscar and Walter Bendele.

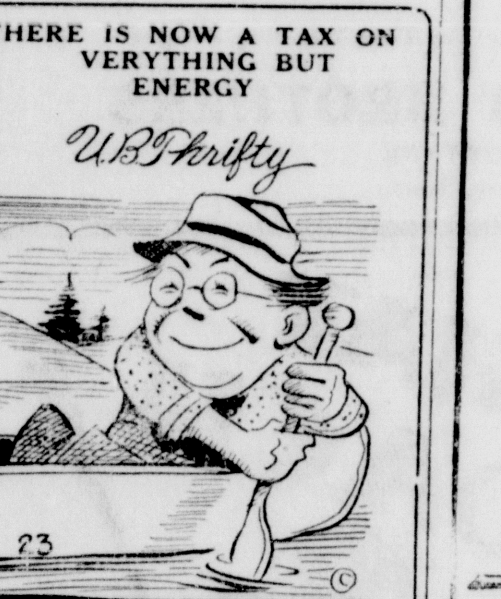

After enjoying a delightful swim a chicken supper was served on the bank of the river and all present spent a pleasant evening.

FOR RENT.

The residence of E. H. Frerichs will be for rent on and after August 1st. 52-11.

THERE IS NOW A TAX ON EVERYTHING BUT ENERGY

WHY WANDER—WE WONDER!

Everyone should realize, we think, that the more money kept in home town banks—the more money such banks will invest profitably—the more money will be provided for helping finance local ventures of every promising sort.

So why send money away to be banked in other towns or cities? Why wander—we wonder?

BODY YOUNG MAN BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL

The remains of Price Sims, age 21, were brought here from Miranda City, Sunday night, and interred beside that of a younger brother, who died several years ago. He was the second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Sims, formerly of this community. He lost his life, at 11:30 Saturday night by a fall from a derrick in Kandada field, 30 miles from Miranda City; the fall of 80 feet badly crushing the body, causing instant death. The remains reached Devine Sunday night, 10:45, landed undertaker in charge, accompanied by several cars of friends and relatives and was taken to the home of an uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crutchfield, where the aged grandparents, who reside in Devine, and many others were gathered. Deceased is survived by his parents, an older brother and sister, of San Antonio, Allison Sims and Mrs. Alton Striobing, a younger sister, Virginia, and other relatives and a host of friends. He was a very fine young man, loved and respected by all who knew him. The funeral was held Monday evening at the Baptist church, where he made a public profession of Christianity, several years ago, during the Gates revival, and services were conducted by Editor W. L. DuBoise, assisted by Pastor P. E. Lancaster and was very large; interment made in the Evergreen Cemetery, and the grave was piled with flowers.

The active pall bearers were Georg Cox, Linden Penland, Claud Williamson, and Ross Teel, of Devine, George Thompson of Peasah, and Alfred Johnson, of Lytle. The honorary pall bearers were Sam G. Cullen, of the Kandada Oil Field, Manager Harry W. Rice, and James F. Lewis, and employees with deceased, and Murphy Sweet, Prentiss Garrett, and John Bowman, of Devine.

INFANT REDUS

Joe Rob, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Redus, age 2 months and 26 days, died at the Medical Arts night, July 10th, following a mastoid operation, and everything possible done to save the life of the little one. Interment was made Thursday afternoon, in Evergreen Cemetery, brief services conducted by Editor W. L. DuBoise. A number of relatives came from San Antonio, Georgetown and other places. The little mound and the one beside it, were covered with beautiful floral offerings.

SEVERAL NEW WELLS TO START SOON.

We have had but little to give out on the local oil situation the past two or three weeks. The past week, however, saw two new wells spudded in in the Adams Gas Field, where gas is almost positively assured. There are about forty wells in this field several of which produce around 40,000,000 cubic feet the day.

Mr. Whyman, geologist for C. O. San Antonio, has made a tentative location feet south of the Zigzag road, on the east side of Black Creek. Their fault, as the geologist has sounded it out, runs between Devine and the Evergreen Cemetery. Mr. Bowen says, they will be going down now in a few days—must get one or two more leases right close to the well.

It is also reported that another well will be started near the Donaldson, south of town where considerable gas was found, and there is oil in the old Kimball; and it is given out that Adams Company sold material for the two derricks, in the gas field the past week, and are figuring on five more derricks, Mr. Keller informed a News reporter.

JOE VANCE SETS WORLD'S RECORD IN BASE RUNNING

According to the report published by Associated Press July 6th, Outfielder Joe Vance of the Rocky Mount ball club of the Eastern Carolina League set an unofficial world's mark Saturday in running the bases. Vance's time was taken as thirteen seconds flat when a number of field events were held before a game with Washington.

The recognized record of 13 2-5 seconds is held by Maurice Archdeacon of Rochester in the International League and was made in 1921. Three stop watches caught Joe at 13 flat and in all probability his record will be turned in for official recognition.

Vance was a star athlete at Southwest Texas Teachers' College in 1926 and '28. During his time here he was a varsity man in all four sports. He left college in the spring of '28 to try out with the San Antonio Bears, and was farmed out to the Coleman team. Since that time he has been making good in professional ball and leads his league in batting and base stealing.—S. W. T. C. Report.

Joe Vance was born on a farm near Devine, is the son of a widow, and is a graduate of Devine High, 1924. His mother, sister, and younger brother reside three miles south from Devine.

SARGON TURNS TABLES AFTER 15 LONG YEARS

"Sargon turned the tables for me after I had tried for 15 years to get well of stomach trouble. Now I am gaining every day. I went from 119 to 130 pounds, a gain of 11 pounds in three weeks on just three bottles. That's pretty good for a man 62 years old. I suffered day and night for almost 15 years and spent many hard earned dollars for medicines, but none of them reached my case until I got Sargon. I felt weak and sick from morning until night. I would just drag myself around but now I feel years younger and can keep going all day. I eat anything I want and have no trace of stomach trouble, headaches or dizzy spells any more."

"The Sargon Soft Mass Pills straightened out my liver and I no longer suffer from biliousness and constipation. It sure is great to be feeling like my old self again and I will always praise the Sargon treatment. There never was any medicine equal to it."

To Identify Genuine Aspirin

THE increasing use of Bayer Aspirin every year is proof that it has no ill effects. It is the accepted antidote for pain. It always helps; it never harms. Quick relief when you've a headache, or cold; or are suffering from neuralgia or neuritis. Rheumatic pains yield, too, if you'll only give these tablets a chance. But you want genuine Aspirin, so look for the Bayer Cross on every tablet. The box always bears the name Bayer and the word genuine printed in red.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetateester of Salicylicacid

The Settling of the Sage

by Hal G. Evarts

COWBOYS, plainsmen, cattle rustlers, outlaws—men quick on the draw and honest or base, according to the parts they played when the cow country was wild and a rough and hearty chivalry ruled the range. This story deals with the first changes in the old order—the early effort to fence the range. There is a charming cowgirl heroine and romance of the most pleasing type.

THEODORE BALZEN DEAD

Theodore Balzen, a lifelong and highly respected citizen of the Sturm Hill community, quietly passed away after a brief period of illness last Wednesday morning at 12:30 in the hospital at Poteet, where he was suffering with his daughter, Mrs. Emil Reitzer. For some time, but especially since the death of his faithful wife in February 1927, Mr. Balzen has been in failing health. From time to time he changed his residence after retiring from active work from the home of one child to that of another, and while he thus enjoyed every comfort and consideration that tender care and medical science could bestow, age and general debility by degrees consumed his vitality and caused him to pass away, as stated above. After his death his remains were brought from Poteet to the home of his son, George Balzen at Sturm Hill. The burial service was had last Thursday afternoon and was conducted in the German and English languages by Rev. P. Hasskarl, pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran church of Quilhi, of which Mr. Balzen was a faithful and honorable member from childhood to death. The service at the grave was greatly beautified by several selections by the Quilhi church choir under the leadership of Mrs. Henry Schuehle. The interment took place in the new cemetery south of Quilhi. The attendance was unusually large, many having come from a distance to pay their tribute of love and esteem to the departed one. Thus too were the floral offerings many and beautiful. The following nephews of Mr. Balzen were his pallbearers: Walter Balzen, Charlie Balzen, Edgar Balzen, Alfred Moehring, Eddie Moehring and Ernest Balzen. From the biography read at Mr. Balzen's grave the following data were gathered: Theodore Balzen was born of Christian parents at Sturm Hill, December 6, 1855. Shortly after his birth he received sacrament in confirmation in Lutheran church at Quilhi and was ever loyal to Christ and His church. As he grew to manhood he became a successful farmer and stockman and followed this calling during the active period of his life. As a young man he entered the marriage with Miss Wilhelmina Poehler of New Fountain, April 9, 1879. This was a long and happy union and ended with four daughters and one son. Of these the following survive: father: George Balzen and Mrs. Neumann of Sturm Hill and Mrs. Balzen is survived also by two sons, namely Mrs. Fritz Borchers Quilhi and Mrs. Fritz Eckhardt of Andara, three brothers: Herman Balzen, Henry H. Balzen and John Balzen of Sturm Hill, and finally by ten grand and three great-grandchildren. A kind and generous father, good neighbor and faithful Christian and friend has passed away and the whole community mourns his departure. May he rest in peace. The civil Herald sympathizes with the bereaved mourners and shares with their many friends the loss of this good man.

GARLIC A PROFITABLE CROP.

San Antonio, July 22.—An indication of value and variety of products of South Texas is shown in a report from Moulton of South Texas Incorporated that six carloads of garlic have been shipped from that point this season. The season's crop was estimated at more than 200,000 pounds and brought farmers of that section more than $10,000. When it is considered that garlic is used almost exclusively for flavoring soups and meat dishes, it would appear that the 200,000 pounds grown at Moulton almost equal the demand for garlic, but growers here the demand still greater than supply and as good prices prevail increased acreage is to be planted next year.

Garlic is also produced in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and also in South Texas Incorporated is commencing production on crop and commercial statistics and opportunities in South Texas which will later be furnished to newspapers and magazines of the North and Middle-West in an effort to induce new people and new money to come to this section and help in its greater development. This material will also be used in advertising to be run by the South Texas Incorporated when the company has been raised, according to J. H. Etheridge, Jr., President, through individual memberships at $100 each.

A delicious salad course was served to: Mesdames Hy. Biry, E. A. Rothe, John Rieber, M. J. Finger, Ben Koch, Ed. Finger, Alfred Rothe, and Herman Vogel and Misses Grace Zinsmeyer, Lucine Finger, Corine Koch, Gertrude Umlang, Esther Grell.

A card party will be given in the Herman Sons' Hall, Saturday night, July 27.

The D'Hanis Pirates secured ample revenge here Sunday for the defeat given them by Uvalde at Uvalde on the previous Sunday, by defeating the visitors by the score of 8 to 4. Tommy Koch pitched his first game in several weeks and was in fine form. He allowed only two earned runs, and was strong in the pinches. He allowed eleven hits but kept them widely scattered. Jim Finger and Raymond Wolff were the boys with the punch as each pounded out a triple. Wolff, Mueller, A. Koch and M. Koch featured in the field. Joe Davis, the Uvalde star who held the Pirates to one hit a week before, was no puzzle to the locals who pounded his delivery, especially with men on bases. Mueller made 3 hits. Next Sunday the Castroville Indians will play the Pirates on the local lot.

After the game the D'Hanis players and their wives were the guests of Misses Agnes Rothe, Agnes Ney, Marcella Ney, and Velma Lieber at the beautiful country home of Miss Agnes Rothe, where a chicken supper was served. This proved to be a very enjoyable affair and the players were ready to bestow upon these young ladies a vote of thanks for the delicious eats that were served. Manager Amos Finger and Allen Koch engaged in an eating contest, but according to the judges it ended in a draw. Allen Koch was accused of passing bones out of the window and as Smut had to keep his on his plate it was a very difficult matter to declare the winner, as the contest was judged by the number of chicken bones at each one's place. It was also rumored that a few of the younger players suffered from hideous nightmares during the night caused no doubt from drinking too much water during the hot afternoon. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wolff, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Rothe and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Boog, Mrs. Emma Rothe, Misses Tina and Agnes Rothe, Agnes and Marcella Ney, Francis Finger, Velma Lieber, Messrs. Amos Finger, James and Joe Finger, Allen, Thomas, and Mitchell Koch, Raymond Nester, Joe Fillingner, Guenther Koch, Joe Mueller, Herman Ney and Herman Fohn.

QUIHI NOTES

Sunday school in Bethlehem Lutheran church Sunday Morning at 9 o'clock. At 8 P. M. divine service in the English tongue will be held. All are cordially welcome. Please bring your English hymn books to this service.

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock divine service will be held in St. John's Lutheran church at New Fountain. All are cordially invited to this and all services in this church.

Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Ladies Aid social of Bethlehem Lutheran church will hold its bi-monthly meeting in the parish hall. The hostesses of the day will be Mesdames Louis Schweers, John Balzen, and George Heyen.

In spite of the great heat, Bethlehem Lutheran church was filled to overflow by an audience anxious to hear and enjoy the Luther League program announced to be rendered. Every number on the program was rendered most excellently, supplemented by a voluntary solo. Mrs. Henry Schuehle presided at the piano and greatly helped the musical numbers on the program. The appreciative audience was well rewarded for having come.

In the last Luther League business meeting it was decided to give a program and lawn social in the near future. The committee of arrangements is: Mr. Frank Baekle, chairman, Mr. Walter Greel and Misses Emma Nietenhoefer and Amanda Grell.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy extended us by our neighbors and friends during last illness and in the death of our beloved father, Theo. Balzen. We especially thank Rev. C. P. Haaskarl and the Quihi Lutheran Church choir for the beautiful funeral service, and also all who sent floral offerings.

Gratefully yours,
The Children.

1930 Buick Has New Body Lines

The 1930 Buick makes its debut this week on the showroom floors of approximately 4,000 dealers throughout the country and, according to factory officials at Flint, Michigan, this new creation will prove one of the outstanding sensations of the year in both performance and appearance.

The Buick line, as in former years, is divided into three series. The wheelbase and the horsepower of all models of the three series have been increased. The wheelbase of the six models of the 40 series has been increased from 116 to 118 inches and the engine has been stepped up to 80½ horsepower.

Wheelbase on the two models in the series 50 line is increased from 121 inches to 124 inches and on the six models of 60 series from 127 inches to 132 inches. Models in the 50 and 60 series have an engine which will develop 99 horsepower. All models in all series have an actual speed well up in the seventies.

In addition to lengthening the wheelbase, the car has been built lower. Body lines and contours have been refined, the shape of the radiator revised, the margin of the radiator shell diminished and thermo-statically operated shutters added to the front. The result is a car of unusual beauty, fleet lines and obvious comfort. The body bears the stamp of Fisher craftsmanship.

Many mechanical advances have been embodied in the 1930 Buick. A steering wheel road-shock eliminating device is one of them and this feature, coupled with a fully adjustable worm and roller type steering assembly, makes the new car singularly easy to steer and handle at high speeds on the open road and in slow moving heavy traffic.

Semi-elliptic springs and double acting shock absorbers are used, together with four wheel internal expansion controlled Servo brakes, redesigned transmission and clutch, improved rubber motor mounting and a wider and sturdier chassis frame. A sloping non-glare windshield is another advancement incorporated in the new Buick.

Performance tests, conducted over a period of several months at the General Motors Proving Ground, have demonstrated that its speed, hill climbing ability and riding comfort set a new all-round precedent in the field of automobile travel.

Little John Robert Wilson was quiet sick one day last week but is better.

Mr. J. T. DuBose and family of Zigzag spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Will Harris.
